COUNTY VIDEO TEACHES POLLUTION REDUCTION TECHNIQUES

Chairman Stapley Introduces Dust Control Video to Construction Industry January 10

(Phoenix) – The Maricopa County Environmental Services Department announced today the release of a video that teaches pollution reduction techniques for the construction industry. In particular, it will teach methods of reducing the clouds of dust and particulates that fill our air. “We want to reduce the number of High Pollution Advisories we have to issue,” says Board of Supervisors Chairman Don Stapley. “This video, created by Environmental Services, is taking a proactive approach to solving the pollution problem.”

The Environmental Services Department will distribute the video free to applicants of earth-moving permits of ten acres or more, and use at settlement conferences and pollution reduction training.
